Plan Weighing of Trucks

Crawley F. Joyner, Jr., Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, has announced that more than 500 weighing scales will be placed throughout the State for the purpose of weighing trucks, tractor trucks, trailers and semi-trailers for compliance with the new licensing law which goes into effect January 1.

(Editor's note: a check of the list of 500 approved scales shows that none of them are in Appomattox County.)

Since there are approximately 85,000 in Virginia of these various types, and the empty and gross weight of each one must be determined and painted or stenciled on the door of the truck and the information sent to a license agent or direct to the Motor Vehicle Division before the truck can be licensed for the new year, there is a little time to be lost to prevent a last minute rush and possible tie-up of transportation.

The operator of an approved scale is authorized to give to the truck operator a six-inch card of the empty weight of the vehicle or an indication of vehicles with the maximum load weight which is expected to be transported during the ensuing license year beginning March 15th, 1943. This should be sent to the Division of Motor Vehicles or one of its licensing agents along with the application for a new license.

MAKING HOUSES WARM IN WINTER WEATHER

Valuable heat may be conserved this winter if a careful check of the house is made to find causes of lost heat. With fuel rationing in effect, it is important that every effort be made to conserve as much as possible.

One cause of lost heat is the leakage of air around windows and doors. Weather-stripping or tightly fitted storm doors and windows will help curtail this loss. Closing the openings between wall studs from the ceiling to the attic will save heat and eliminate a dangerous fire hazard. Such openings are virtually chimneys for any fire starting in the basement.

Paul savings can be made and comfort improved by insulation over ceilings and attic walls. The same insulation that protects from heat in winter aids in keeping the house cozy in summer.

If exterior doors opening directly into frequently occupied rooms can be moved so as to open into entries or halls, much of the heat of these rooms will be saved.

Stove utilize heat more efficiently than do fireplaces. Smokeless stoves are made with a circulating system which sends more of the heat out into the room instead of up the chimney. The heat in the fifth range is sometimes used in an upper room by providing a grating through the floor above the stove.
